Soviet Asks For Aerial Inspection

LONDON — (U.P.) — The Soviet Union proposed Tuesday that 5,510,000 square miles of Soviet and U. S. territory should be thrown open to aerial inspection in a mammoth "open skies" plan.

The proposal was made at the United Nations disarmament subcommittee meeting in London by Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin, along with the other new Soviet suggestions on disarmament.

U. S. delegates remained silent on the Soviet proposals, but the French called them unacceptable. A French spokesman said, however, the Soviet plan indicated "a certain amount of good will toward further negotiations."

Longden Calls LDS Gospel Priceless

by Arlene Larsen

"No wonder the Gospel of Jesus Christ is called the 'Pearl of Great Price'," stated John Longden, Assistant to the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Tuesday's devotional.

Gospel Priceless

Longden expressed that the gospel was priceless because "embodied in this so called 'practical religion' is spirituality."

After hearing a statement of Brigham Young's second president of the LDS Church, the audience agreed they were all missionaries, missionaries to do good, promote righteousness, teach principles of truth and to prevail upon everyone to obtain eternal life.

"Live for the good of one another and live to reflect the truths of the restoration," encouraged the church leader. Ninety six per cent of the students/only are members of the church, related Elder Longden.

Responsibilities Important

He expressed the importance of Church members recognizing their responsibilities of the priesthood and membership in a gospel by setting goals, promoting righteousness, teaching principles of truth and encouraging everyone to live to obtain eternal life, wherever they are.

According to Longden, President Young regretted during his time that his mission wasn't better understood by the world and stated that the time would come when the world would understand. Examples were related by Longden where this was happening.

The Church has achieved a high status in the world and only by applying the principle of example along with precept can we live up to the position the world has given us, concluded the church leader.

Issue Aimed At Coeds

Thursday's issue of the Daily Universe will be directed at coeds on campus.

This is a part of the Women's Week activities. Special features, stories and articles of interest to women on campus will be included.

Court Excuses 66 Campus Units Charged With Non-Attendance

Fred Lundberg, Chief Justice of the Inter-organization Council Court, issued a warning Monday to organizations that have not been attending monthly IOC meetings.

Lundberg waived penalty since the charge by IOC administration was not properly substantiated. When the court attempted to issue the summons they discovered that some organizations had gone inactive, had no officers, or had been dissolved.

Scheduling privileges of organizations present at the IOC meeting or the court session will be re-established as soon as possible, according to Lundberg.

In speaking to the 35 members present Lundberg said, "A minimum amount of activity of the court would be fine." He emphasized that the court was only to be used when absolutely necessary for the proper functioning of IOC.

Children of Brigham Young University married students will take over eating facilities at 2:30 p. m. with a costume fashion parade.

All parents interested in entering their children are urged by Chairman Shirley Stanford, Los Angeles, Calif., to meet in front of Eyring Science Center.

Also on tap for Monday's festivities is a crawling derby for babies under one year. A cup will be awarded the champ.

Thursday children will parade in the quad in front of ESC immediately after assembly. Those interested in participating in this event are asked to contact Miss Stanford, FR 3-7810.

LET'S SHOW 'EM

Of all the Y Days Brigham Young University has had, this is the big one. Never before has this traditional day encompassed so many projects and activities. Now the question will be easiest answered—can we do it?

WAIT AND SEE

A lot of people are waiting to see if President Ernest Wilkinson bit off too large a chunk when he expanded the university's bulging chest and announced the invasion of Provo as a Y Day project.

Undoubtedly wary downtown fathers are biting their nails up to the elbows wondering just how much good will be accomplished by boisterous collegians turned loose on the city.

Harnessing the tremendous power circulating in a body of 8,000 students is an unenviable task. People responsible for inciting giant BYU into action should be commended for their efforts thus far. However, the final answer lies in the will of every member of the student body. If every day during the school year will reveal the amount of school spirit and enthusiasm on hand, that day is Y Day.

BE SUCCESSFUL

We honestly urge every citizen of this community to feel that a successful Y Day is your personal responsibility. After eight long months behind the textbook and at the highbreaking desk, go out and work up a good sweat, let your mind take a vacation and give long-dormant muscles long-needed exercise. Get good and tired and experience the wonderful feeling of having done a job well and then take a deserved rest.

BYU has done a lot of huffing and puffing about being a university big in population yet having good, small school spirit. Wednesday will offer the final measuring stick for many words and reams of publicity.

SLEEPY GIANT

Some have said that BYU is a giant growing more sleepy with each gain in population. It has been said that "I don't care" is the attitude of the average student. . . . the faculty is supposedly becoming more stuffy and aloof with each passing quarter.

Let's make an effort to dispel those rumors. Studentbody, climb that mountain, sweep that creek, dig those weeds, faculty, chase that greased pig, paint those houses—Provo, watch us in action then judge.

This is certainly a day of judgment for every one of us. Do we have what it takes?

MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle

"Hey, instructor! Slow it down to a trot Tweedy got thrown again!"

Off Beat

by Gene Barlow

It's great to arise early these brisk spring mornings, but most of us claim 9 a. m. as being plenty early.

Y Day's the exception though when everybody actually wants to awake from their "sand seances." It's almost "great-to-be-alive today!"

* * * *

This weekend our "friends-to-the-north" will dance to the college stylings of Les Brown while our supposedly "better studentbody" must be content with small, mediocre, local combos!

Our humility would be lessened if we could even enjoy a "fab" local band, but groups like the "Y's Men" are being disbanded for financial reasons. Next they will use only "records" in order to save a few cents more.

Possible "mismanagement of funds" is the alleged reason for the Dance Committee's "being in the red."

After talking to Darrel Walker and Roger Victor, we can look forward to a much better "Dance Season" next year.

Through "group buying" by the Utah schools, "name bands" may appear on our fair campus next year if the administration will "okay" the cost.

Anyway we look at it, things can only (and had better) improve next year.

* * * *

We hope not too many boys were "shocked" when a charming girl called them and asked, "How many times do you go out a week?" The "quiz" was a part of a "Studentbody Committee" poll.

Forty-five per cent of the masculine gender dates less than once a week. What an alarming number of "dead beats"! Reasons they gave were finances, studies, transportation, and lack of interest.

Thirty-seven per cent of BYU men are regular "playboys" though, dating more than twice a week.

* * * *

We met a very charming fellow the other morning, Brother Bob Atwood. He generously volunteered to "look after (") " your truly during "pledging procedures".

From The Tower

Even though the weather changes each sunrise and no one knows if it will be spring or winter when getting up in the morning, campus lovers are still sprouting.

In full bloom are such "flowers" as "Blooming Idiotous" presently on display in the flower racks at assemblies. This variety entwines in groups of two, holding hands, nuzzling, and otherwise showing affection.

They find the atmosphere of a good devotional speaker or assembly like sunshine and it brings them to full action within mere minutes. Treating the Smith Fieldhouse like Rock Canyon is becoming a prevalent with each passing Tuesday and Thursday.

Even on cool days the "Americanus Spooner" sprouts on sidewalks and lawns around the campus. This cultivated breed thinks nothing of clinging clinches, hearty hugging or passionate pushing in full view of every passer-by.

The "Interdigitatus Vine" is similar to the other blooming varieties, except this one is particularly fashionable in church meetings.

With so many "natural" trysting places on and about campus, it seems that university lovers can be a bit more original than to make a public display of their affections. After all, romance is still a pleasantly private affair, and public affection becomes little more than pseudo-affection.

When it becomes necessary for couples to display their emotions to a studentbody rather than a sincere expression of individual feelings.

Drugs Take Place Of Hotcakes

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK — 05 — Fortune, which doesn't sell quite like hotcakes or transistors, which on are drugs that do for the hyper-tense modern what a stack of buckwheats used to do for his father, comes out with a sombre study of the new drug craze.

Pills Taken

Tranquilizing pills have been taken by 10,000,000 Americans since they came to the market in 1954. Their initial use before that had been confined largely to mental institutions—where it was found they reduced the number of electric-shock and insulin-coma treatments for the nation's nearly 1,000,000 hospitalized deranged.

In the hands of "the peepul," the pills are prescribed for "almost every emotional complaint that mortal man has been able to "jam" between cradle and tomb. There were 30,000,000 subscriptions filled in 1956, and this year the nation will pay $175,000,000 in search of the lost continent of Euphoria. Historians may describe ours as the "don't give a damn" age.

No Our Certain

No one is precisely certain what will happen to habitual users of the tranquilizers, or to the nation, for that matter, if the epidemic spreads any more than to date. Author Francis Bello concludes, nervously:

"The solution would seem to lie not in drugging the primitive brain, but in educating the forebrain to distinguish more effectively between real threats and imaginary ones, to distinguish between petty vexations and problems that must be faced and solved, if man is to survive as other million years."

Dr. Gained

Dr. Will Menninger, the Topekan who gained world fame in the treatment of mental disorders, has another way of putting it:

"What this country needs is more people taking 'do give-a-damn' pills."

Malcolm Johnson, Pulitzer Prize winner now with Robinson-Hannagan associates in New York, finds himself in the middle of a hot political fight for the first time in his life—though he covered a million of them for the old Sun and for INS. Mike is running for the school board of New Hyde Park, Long Island, N. Y. Their big issue there has national overtones and reflections:

Unwanted Campus Males Vie In Least-Preferred Man Test

Contestants for the least preferred man on Bingham Young University campus have been narrowed down to nine loathesome finalists.

Voting Wednesday

Final votes will be cast in the Cougar Stadium Wednesday by the Y Day laborers while they are eating lunch.

A line in a poem stating why Anderson is least preferred says, "His grooming is poor, you can tell at one glance that when he chases girls, he hasn't got a chance." According to the petition submitted by Beckstrand's friends (?) he is a "loathesome, distasteful, uncouth, unadulterated rat" and Bullock was nominated because he is "a wolf with a line six feet long and his ears in the only neat thing about him."

Called Inconsiderate

Davis's petitioners say he is "not considerate in any way, shape, or form and is just plain obnoxious," and Safsten "has had the unique total of one date in his entire life," to make him eligible for the least popular man.

Schetsalaar is least-preferred because "birds wouldn't have him and he was voted the boy we would most like to have stranded on a desert island." Tenney "likes sports and the first thing he does on a date is hand his date a referee whistle," whereas Van Noy is a "broken down, anti-social, male animal with a nauseating sense of humor." Baker "treats all girls like imbeciles" which makes him eligible to be least preferred.

The announcement of the least preferred man on campus will be made at the Wednesday evening Y Day dance.

Weekend Sports Schedule Features Athletic Deluge

When it rains it pours, doesn't it. If it doesn't rain this weekend it will pour athletic events.

The contingents involved in this athletic downpour will be age-old arch rivals Brigham Young University and their Indian friends to the North—Utah's Redskins.

The fireworks begin in Provo Friday when the Cat golfers, probably the best group of linksters in BYU's history, tee off against a Utah team they burned 15-3 two weeks ago in Salt Lake. We wouldn't give a plug nickel for Utah's chances of beating Coach (Buck) Dixon's Skyline champions.

When the Utes and Cougars square off in tennis, Friday, however, Dixon will be staring at the other side of the coin. In their previous engagement the Redskins whitewashed the Cats 7-0.

In the meantime, the Cougar netmen downed Utah State 5-0 and would have made it 7-0 if the rained-out doubles had been completed. A good contingent of BYU tennis players will give Utah a better match this time.

Utah has deep-seeded tennis tradition. Theron Parmelee has been at the net helm for 23 years and during that time has succeeded in building a "pretty fair country tennis team," in the words of one Redskin supporter.

Merrill Douglas

Just back from a split with Montana in Saturday's doubleheader, BYU's improving baseball team will be ready for the Utes. Jack Greenen, fastballing sophomore, is elected to start. Her whipped the Cougars handily in the Cougar home opener. Ted Chenoweth was fairly effective against BYU in Salt Lake two weeks ago. George Ross came on in relief and virtually slammed the door in the Cougar's faces.

BYU has yet to face Blaine Sylvester, the Ute's most effective pitcher to date. Sylvester is a lefthander and may not face the Cougar's right handed heavy lineup.

Utah can hit the ball. The Salt Lake City "Slickers" combed Utah State pitching for 33 runs. That's pretty good scoring no matter who is pitching.

The Brighams have a good hitting club which hasn't as yet reached its potential. Norm Christensen got four hits against Montana, a triple, double and two singles. The third baseman has rapped the ball hard in his four league games, but he hit them directly to fielders against Utah.

Paul Haynie is .500 in four conference games. Lynn Foster and Ron Kitchen can hit the long ball. Leon Moyes is a fine lead-off hitter and for a catcher Brent Pratley really puts that ball.

Cravens and Skousen will be pitching carefully to Merrill Douglas and Curtis Jensen. Douglas clubbed a homer off Skousen in Salt Lake and Jensen got three timely hits off Cougar pitching the following day.
